The student enrolls in a second 3 credit course to conduct the dissertation study, analyze results, and present findings. Both courses may be repeated, but only three hours of credit count toward the degree for each course.

Research Tools

The student, in consultation with the Advisory Committee, will determine 12 semester credit hours designated as research tools.

Qualifying Examination

Candidates for the doctoral degree must pass a qualifying process and comprehensive examination ascertaining a student's:

1. breadth and depth of knowledge requisite to perform successfully within the profession,
2. understanding and application of a discipline's foundational literature, and
3. readiness to complete a dissertation.

The exam is comprised of four written sections covering selected areas of the student's emphases and an oral defense of written responses. It may be repeated once. Students are eligible to begin the comprehensive exam process during their final semester of coursework and after completing all prerequisites (if admitted conditionally), all research tools, and all core courses. The exams may be repeated only once. A student who fails a second comprehensive exam attempt will be removed from the Kinesiology doctoral program.

Final Examination

The Dissertation Committee conducts an oral examination of the candidate's research after the dissertation is completed. At the committee's discretion, the examination may be repeated only once.
