Short-Term Training for Career Entry and Advancement

TWU Ventures is Texas Woman's University's hub for professional training, created to help adult and working learners gain job-ready skills for career entry or career advancement. Through flexible programs that can often be completed in weeks, you can earn non-credit-bearing, employer-recognized credentials to support your next step, whether you are starting in a new field, moving up in your current role, or preparing for a promotion.

TWU credentials are developed with employers, workforce organizations, and industry experts to ensure training aligns with real workforce needs in high-demand areas such as healthcare, business, sales, and technology. Many options are offered online, in person, or in hybrid formats so you can learn while you work.

TWU Ventures credentials are non-credit and separate from TWU's academic degree programs, unless a specific credential is explicitly noted as connected to a for-credit program. Credentials may be stand-alone or stackable, giving you a clear way to build skills now and continue learning over time.
